

CofmanTownsley, Corporate Fact Sheet

Corporate Background

For more than 30 years, CofmanTownsley has provided people in the state of Missouri and the greater East St. Louis area of Illinois with professional, successful personal injury representation. With a reputation as being tough litigators who fight to win, the four partners at CofmanTownsley are determined to fulfill their motto, “We work for you,” in each and every case.

CofmanTownsley is dedicated to representing the rights of individuals who are injured by the negligent acts of others. As a CofmanTownsley client, each case is personally represented by one of the four partners—Stuart Cofman, Larry Townsley, David Nissenholtz, and Sheldon Weinstein, who together have more than 125 years combined experience in personal injury law.

There is no substitute for one-on-one attention and counsel from an experienced personal injury lawyer, especially when someone has been injured and needs someone to look out for his or her best interest. The partners and the firm’s staff—which includes paralegals, investigators, case managers, and administrative professionals—keep their clients’ best interests at heart, ensuring that the greatest care and diligence are taken at every step of the process, whether the case reaches a settlement or is taken to trial.
